

Looking for the perfect solution to protect your property against the dangers of lithium battery fires?

Look no further than a Gel Lithium Extinguishers, the pioneering fire suppression technology designed to extinguish the threat caused by lithium battery fires.

Specifically designed as a gel solution to combat lithium battery fires, these Gel Lithium Extinguishers are the first choice for lithium battery fire protection. Unlike conventional extinguishing agents, our Gel Lithium Extinguishers are formulated to achieve results that are unobtainable with other fire suppression technologies.

Our 9-litre Gel Lithium Extinguisher is a tried-and-tested extinguishing agent, suitable for use in factories, offices, lithium battery storage centres, e-vehicle parking areas, and other locations where significant numbers of lithium battery devices are stored.

In addition to extinguishing lithium battery fires, our Gel Lithium Extinguishers are also effective against A-class fires. However, they are not recommended for use on electrical fires.

Our Gel Lithium Extinguishers contain a water-based gel that is formulated to extinguish lithium fires and cool down the batteries, preventing thermal runaway and minimizing the toxic fumes created by burning lithium batteries. With our Gel Lithium Extinguishers, you can be sure that you are providing your property with the best protection against the risks posed by lithium battery fires.

At Firestorm, we are constantly working to improve our fire suppression technology. We are currently exploring the viability of larger units, as well as smaller units that are more suited to residential and small commercial properties. Our goal is to provide fire suppression solutions that are tailored to the unique needs of each of our clients.
